Day 1 of “Samarthya – The HR Conclave 2025” concludes successfully at IIT (ISM) Dhanbad

The Department of Management Studies and Industrial Engineering (DMSIE), IIT (ISM) Dhanbad, successfully inaugurated and hosted Day 1 of “Samarthya – The HR Conclave 2025” at Penman Auditorium on Saturday.

The conclave, themed “Building Future-Ready Talent: Bridging Campus to Corporate,” brought together a distinguished gathering of HR leaders, industry experts, academicians, and young professionals to deliberate on the evolving landscape of human resource management and the future of work.

The day began with a grand inaugural session, setting the stage for insightful keynote addresses and thought-provoking panel discussions. Eminent speakers and panelists, including Sanjib Biswas, Monika Garg, Priya Ranjan Kumar, Ashay Sinha Chakravarty, Paapori Chakravarty, Arpit Srivastava, Tarun Girdhar, Asif Zafar, and Sachin Sharma, shared their expertise on critical topics ranging from inclusive leadership to talent management and next-gen workforce strategies.

Each session witnessed engaging conversations, offering fresh perspectives to students and participants while inspiring collaborative thought on bridging the gap between academia and industry.

The event concluded with a vibrant group photograph, symbolizing the spirit of collaboration and knowledge-sharing that defined the day.

Speaking on the occasion, the organizers from DMSIE said, “Samarthya is not just an HR conclave but a platform to connect, collaborate, and co-create the future of talent and leadership. Day 1 has set an excellent tone for the event, and we look forward to equally insightful sessions on Day 2.”

The two-day conclave will continue on Sunday with further panel discussions and keynote sessions focusing on building future-ready leaders.
