As part of the inaugural day celebrations of its Centenary Foundation Week, IIT (ISM) Dhanbad organised a grand cultural evening at the Penman Auditorium on Wednesday, bringing together music, dance, poetry and regional heritage in a colourful showcase of artistic expression. The event added a celebratory and soulful dimension to the historic launch of the institute's 100-year festivities.

The cultural evening was graced by Smt. Sakuntala Mishra, President, Deepti Ladies Club, IIT (ISM), along with faculty members, staff, students, alumni and their families. The programme was anchored by Prof. Rajni Singh, Dean (Corporate Communications), whose eloquent compering ensured a seamless flow of performances and reflected the festive spirit of the occasion.

The evening began with a serene Ganesh Vandana, presented by Riddhi and Siddhi, invoking auspicious blessings for the centenary celebrations. This was followed by Giri Nandani Vandana, performed by Gauri, offering a graceful tribute to divine feminine energy.

A powerful dance drama, "Pralhad Chitram," captivated the audience with its expressive storytelling and dramatic depiction of devotion and courage. The auditorium resonated with applause as performers brought the mythological narrative to life with striking choreography.

Carrying forward the cultural diversity of the region, the energetic "Johar Jharkhand" dance showcased the tribal vibrancy and folk traditions of Jharkhand, drawing enthusiastic appreciation from the audience for its rhythm, colour and spirit.

The devotional piece "Namami Namami," dedicated to Lord Shiva, added a spiritual essence to the evening, while a lively group dance presented by Shyamala and group infused the programme with contemporary flair and youthful enthusiasm.

The session offered an engaging finale, adding literary charm to the night's celebrations.

The event highlighted IIT (ISM)'s commitment not only to academic excellence but also to cultural enrichment and community engagement—values that have shaped the institute's journey over a century. The enthusiastic participation of students, faculty and family members reflected the strong sense of belonging and pride associated with the institute's centenary year.
